My stake in the company currently represents a significant portion of my investment portfolio and I have reached a stage of life where I needed to create some liquidity to partially diversify my investments and begin thinking about estate planning. MiX continues to be the main component of my investment portfolio now that this selling program is completed and I am still one of the company's largest shareholders. I am very excited about the future of MiX Telematics and remain focused on executing on our strategic priorities to generate additional value for all shareholders."
